

University of Kentucky Center for Applied Energy Research Power Generation Research Group

NF/RO membrane separation apparatus

This apparatus is used to evaluate membranes for separation performance in the nanofiltration (NF)/reverse osmosis (RO) process. The high-pressure-driven separation process is operated at various permeation temperatures in a cross-flow manner.